Undergraduate Council Action
Lower-Division Group-Satisfying Motions

Two motions were proposed based on the survey of lower-division group-satisfying courses that the council has completed so far:

- (1) Faculty or departments are required to post Web syllabi for all group-satisfying courses prior to registration.

- (2) Proposed general education courses that are to be offered in an online format should be reviewed for instructional design and delivery methods, in addition to being reviewed for content through the regular approval process for new courses. This is to ensure that technology is used appropriately and that students are offered an educational experience similar to that in a classroom. The same procedure should be used during the cyclical 5-year review of established general education courses, if they are offered online. An appropriate committee will be designated or created to carry out the extra review of online courses.

Both motions were seconded and passed unanimously by the Undergraduate Council.
